

UNDERDASH PANEL MGB

The best endorsements of a great accessory for your car are when it looks as if it was always there and you can't imagine your car without it. That's certainly the case with the very simple but effective MGB underdash panel that conceals at last the unsightly loops of cabling running to the ignition switch and column stalks, plus all the other bits under the fascia that are better not displayed to the world.

The underdash panel also makes a perfect place to site switches for auxilliary and accessory equipment and may even be used as a mounting for extra gauges if desired.

Easily fitted and just as easily removed for maintenance, the underdash panel is manufactured in stout, grain-finished black millboard, a material that looks completely at home in a 1960s or 1970s car. It is available in right or left hand drive versions, to fit all MGBs, MGCs and V8s.

Easy to fit. Simply folds into place (folding along pre-embossed lines) and is secured by a couple of self tapping screws.

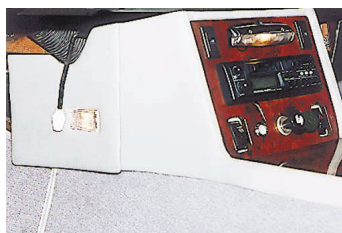

Basic hand tools required. Crosshead screwdriver, plus a drill for screw holes.
